EXECUTIVE MOVES

Nonprofits

PlanSmart NJ, in Trenton, has announced two appointments:

■ Ann Brady has been promoted to managing director. She has worked at PlanSmart NJ for nearly 20 years, managing planning projects including the Mercer County Green Links Project and the Watershed Management Area 11 Project.

■ Lucy Vandenberg has been named executive director. She previously was planning and redevelopment aide for Mayor Dana L. Redd, of the city of Camden. She also was the executive director of the New Jersey Council on Affordable Housing from 2003 to 2010.

Judy Hurley has been named chief operating officer at Little Kids Rock, a provider of free musical instruments and teacher training based in Cedar Grove. She brings more than 25 years of experience in nonprofit management. She holds a bachelor's degree in social work from Anna Maria College, and has pursued graduate studies in nonprofit administration at the University of San Francisco.
